

Zebrina Leung Warner

Program Manager

Institute for Defense and Business

warner@idb.org

Mrs. Warner has been with the IDB for over seven years. As a Program Manager, she manages the overall LOGTECH MBA program, which includes three active cohorts totaling around 60 students each year. In this position, she is responsible for assisting in curriculum development; scheduling faculty for the residencies; registering and maintaining student enrollment and grades; managing advisors and student projects; scheduling and contracting with facilities; coordinating meetings, site visits, and all logistics for students and program administrators for the 10-day overseas study tour; maintaining budget process; and managing a program assistant. She also oversees and guides several marketing efforts. In addition, Mrs. Warner oversees the IDB Executive Fellows Program, which consists of five retired senior ranked military and civilian logisticians.

Mrs. Warner completed her LOGTECH MBA (now known as the IU-UNC LogMBA) from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2007 and a MS in Strategic Management from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University in 2010. She graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2000 with BA from the School of Journalism.